

Romney And Eisenhower To Meet Tuesday

By The Associated Press
In the Republican party's series of fund-raising events this week, Detroit will stage a "Dinner with Ike" while "Dinner with Romney" will be at Washington, D. C.

But former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and Gov. George Romney — a man Eisenhower says would make an "excellent" candidate for the GOP presidential nomination — will meet before dinner.

Dinner time for both Republican banquets is Wednesday evening and Romney is to meet Eisenhower at Detroit Metropolitan Airport when the general arrives Tuesday for a visit of about 40 hours.

May Draw 4,000

Romney, guest of honor at Washington, will leave Michigan Tuesday night or Wednesday morning, a spokesman for the governor said. It is expected the two will take advantage of their time together to confer on party matters.

In recent weeks, Eisenhower has urged several prominent Republicans to make themselves "more available" for the 1964 GOP presidential nomination. It is expected he may do the same with Romney, who says he is not an active candidate but is available for a draft.

"Dinner with Ike," a $100-a-plate affair, is expected to draw some 3,000 to 4,000 guests to Cobo Hall. It is one of 21 GOP dinners around the nation, with proceeds to be split up among national and state Republican organizations.

Democrats Enlist Women
Democratic organization moves, meanwhile, included a national drive—starting in Michigan — to enlist Democratic women for volunteer party work of four hours a week each.

National Vice Chairman Margaret Price, formerly of Ann Arbor, heads the drive. She plans an eight-day tour including Indiana, Colorado and Nevada for the campaign.

At a meeting of Democratic women in Detroit Saturday, Congressman - at - large Neil Stabler enlisted volunteers to begin circulating his petitions for the party's nomination for governor.

Johnson Asks Housing Aid For Expanding Areas

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson extended a helping hand today to fast-growing suburban communities swamped by demands for "new classrooms, uncounted miles of new streets and utility lines, and an unprecedented volume of water and sewerage facilities."

He asked Congress to provide federal grants and loans to local governments and private developers so future expansion won't be carried out, as it often has in the past, "in a sprawling, space - consuming, unplanned and uneconomic way."

Old Plans Revived
This was the major new proposal in the President's message to Congress on housing and community development, but he also had a few new wrinkles in the older, established programs such as public housing and urban renewal.

These variations included plans to buy and rent existing housing for public housing purposes and new aid for those ousted by urban renewal projects.

Johnson outlined to Congress a comprehensive program to achieve the goal he set shortly after taking office last fall: "A

Test Case Held On Constitution

PORT HURON (AP) — A three-judge panel in U.S. District Court was due today to begin hearing the test case over constitutionality of legislative reapportionment in Michigan's new constitution.

Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley, whose office is appearing on both sides of the issue, said he would make a statement personally at the start of the suit.

In the suit, labor leader August Scholle charges that the "80-20 formula" reapportioning the state senate is unconstitutional.

The formula gives 80 per cent weight to population and 20 per cent to area. Scholle, Michigan AFL-CIO president, says this violates the U.S. Constitution by circumventing the doctrine of "one man, one vote."

Scholle named Secretary of State James M. Hare and three state senators as defendants in his suit. A court verdict is pending on a similar case brought by Scholle under Michigan's former constitution. The new constitution took effect Jan. 1.

Arguments were scheduled today from the plaintiff's side.

Death Toll Up

EAST LANSING (AP)—Traffic accidents have killed 126 persons in Michigan so far this year, provisional figures compiled by State Police showed today. The highway death toll at this date last year was 88.

Woman Senator To Enter Race For Presidency

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine is expected to announce today that she will try for the Republican presidential nomination.

If she takes the plunge and beats the half-dozen or so declared and undeclared aspirants to the GOP's top prize — which political observers consider unlikely—she would be the first woman ever to run on the national ticket of a major political party.

The first big step along this road would be announcement that she intends to enter the New Hampshire presidential primary. More likely is a declaration that she will not discourage supporters from entering her name.

There has been speculation that while the gray-haired, 65-year-old veteran of 15 years in the Senate may announce for the presidency, her real objective would be the vice presidential nomination.

Mrs. Smith tried to scotch such thinking Sunday. She told an interviewer on WRC-TV's "Sunday" show: "If I decide to run I will be a candidate for the presidency."

Could a woman win the nomination?

"It would be an uphill job, but I think it is possible," she said.

Mrs. Smith had been expected to announce her intentions Dec. 5 in a speech to the Women's National Press Club, her luncheon forum today. But she canceled that talk and other appearances immediately after receiving word of President Kennedy's assassination.

New Drug Given Vaccinia Victim

DENVER (AP)—A new drug is being given a 1-year-old Michigan boy afflicted with complications from smallpox vaccination.

The child, John H. Rozier Jr. of Flint has vaccinia and is in very grave condition, a physician said.

John is receiving anti-serum and the new drug, which has the trade name of Morboran. Dr. C. Henry Kempe, head of the pediatrics department at the University of Colorado Medical Center, said the drug had been successful in three similar cases.

John was flown here Friday in an Air Force plane. His father, a factory worker, is in Denver with him. Two other children in the family have not developed the ailment, which is highly contagious.

Dr. Kempe said of the young patient: "His condition is not acutely grave in the sense that we expect to lose him tomorrow, but he is certainly a very, very sick child."

Anarchy Quelled In East Africa

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP)—British troops kept peace in restive East Africa today after disarming mutinous native soldiers in the young commonwealth nations of Kenya, Tanganyika and Uganda.

British and African officers questioned the rebellious troops in the three neighboring countries, trying to find out if there was a master plan behind the upheavals. All erupted last week in the wake of the Communist-tinged coup that toppled the sultan of Zanzibar.

A spokesman at the British East Africa command post in Nairobi said no evidence has been found to indicate the mutinies were part of an over-all rebellion, but investigations were continuing. The mutineers in Kenya, Tanganyika and Uganda were former members of the Queen's African Rifles who had served under the British flag until the

Congo Raiders Kill US Woman

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (AP) — An American woman missionary has been killed and another wounded by rebels waging war on Christian missions and the central Congo government in the southwestern Congo province of Kwilu.

The central government said it had documentary proof the rebels, led by former Education Minister Pierre Mulele, are supported by Red China.

The government declared a state of emergency in Kwilu province and rushed 450 soldiers into the region. It said important measures would be taken, "the nature of which will be revealed at an opportune moment."

Irene Ferrel, 43, of Eagle Butte, S.D., Sunday was reported killed by a rebel's arrow during a raid on a Baptist mission at the village of Mangungu, 300 miles southeast of Leopoldville.

The Congo inland missionary in Leopoldville reported that Ruth Hege, 58, of Wellington, Ohio, also attached to the Mangungu station, was wounded. Latest reports indicated she was still in the area.

The guerrillas killed three Roman Catholic priests last week.

Cigarette Ads To Be Scanned By Broadcasters

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP)—The board of directors of the National Association of Broadcasters convenes today for a weeklong meeting that will consider, among other things, the industry's position on cigarette advertising.

NAB President Leroy Collins, former governor of Florida, also will attend. His presence will be spiced by the question of whether he wants to keep his $75,000-a-year job or run for public office.

The television Code of Ethics Board recommended two changes in the NAB's cigarette advertising policy in the wake of the government report linking smoking and lung cancer. They warn against advertising that makes smoking appear to young people or advertising that makes smoking appear to be healthy.

Teenage Trio Held In Series Of Auto Thefts

JACKSON (AP)—Three teenage boys, two of them identified as escapees from the Boys Industrial School at Topeka, Kan., were held today in connection with a series of car thefts in Michigan.

The three, two of them 15 years old and one 16, were caught Sunday night in Mason, north of here, while attempting to steal an auto, police said.

Officers said two of the boys fled from the industrial school on Jan. 22, stole a car and drove to Pinckney, Mich., where they met the third youth, abandoned the car and stole another.

Police said the car ran out of gas in Mason and the boys were captured by police after a car-owner noticed them attempting to drive away in his auto.

Civil Rights And Tax Bills Await Congress Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House and Senate take it easy this week before tackling the two biggest bills of the congressional session—civil rights and taxes.

The long-delayed civil rights bill is scheduled to reach the House floor Friday, but voting on amendments won't begin until next week.

In the Senate, the Finance Committee is hurrying its detailed report on the $11.5 billion tax cut bill in hopes of getting it to the floor by Friday. But it is more likely that debate will start next Monday.

It was learned that Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., the second-ranking Democrat on the Finance Committee, will have the job of piloting the tax cut through the Senate. Chairman Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., voted against the bill in committee and decided to let Long handle it on the floor.

Leaders hope to pilot the civil rights bill to House passage and the tax cut measure through the Senate by Feb. 11. But both will continue to foment the action in Congress for weeks after that.

The civil rights bill is expected to set off a full-scale filibuster in the Senate, and the tax bill must go through long House - Senate negotiations to work out differences between the versions passed by each body.

If there is little going on in the main tent this week, the Robert G. Baker hearings in the Senate may provide more action.

The investigation of the activities of the former secretary to Senate Democrats resumes Tuesday with Max H. Karl, president of the Mortgage Guarantee Insurance Corp., of Milwaukee, in the witness chair.

Paris Recognizes Peking Regime

PARIS (AP)—France officially recognized the Communist Chinese regime in Peking today.

Peking radio made a similar announcement. The French announcement said the two governments had agreed to establish diplomatic relations and to exchange ambassadors.

There was no immediate indication of how this step would affect the ties between France and the Nationalist Chinese regime of President Chiang Kai-shek on Formosa.

French officials previously had said that Peking had not demanded that France break relations with Chiang as a condition for diplomatic ties, and the assumption was that France could therefore maintain relations with both regimes.

Comes At Bad Time
Peking Radio said France and Red China have agreed to appoint ambassadors to each other within three months.

In Washington, the U.S. State Department called France's recognition of Peking "an unfortunate step" and reaffirmed U.S. intentions to stand by the Nationalist regime. The State Department said it had "repeatedly expressed" its view to the French.

The State Department said the French recognition was particularly unfortunate since it came "at a time when the Chinese Communists are actively promoting aggression and subversion in Southeast Asia and elsewhere."

The French government announcement said:

No British Ambassador
"The government of the French Republic and the government of the People's Republic of China have decided, by mutual accord, to establish diplomatic relations.

"They have agreed, in this connection, to designate their ambassadors within three months."

At least 13 persons died in Michigan traffic accidents over the weekend, including two women killed Saturday in a three-vehicle pileup near Benton Harbor, blamed on blowing snow.

United States Sights Lead In Rocket Power

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — A Saturn 1 super-rocket was to try to hurl the world's largest satellite into orbit today and possibly give the United States the lead in the race for space rocket power.

The 40-man launching team started final countdown at 11 p.m. (EST) Sunday night, aiming for a blastoff time of 10 a.m. If technical or weather problems delay the launch, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration set a cutoff time for 4 p.m.

Later, a fueling problem developed in the first stage, delaying the launching at least 48 hours.

National radio and television networks planned live coverage of the launching.

Weights 562 Tons
Earlier this month, Dr. Hugh L. Dryden, deputy chief of the space agency, said, "we are drawing very close" to the Russians in rocket power and "as soon as the Saturn satellite has been placed in orbit we will have relieved this deficiency in weight - carrying ability we've labored so long."

The rocket, 164 feet tall and weighing 562 tons, is the first in the Saturn 1 series with a live second stage, which burns high - energy liquid hydrogen. Successes were recorded on four earlier flights of the first stage, an eight-engine powerplant that generates 1.5 million pounds of thrust, equal to 34 million horsepower.

If the rocket performs as planned, the second stage will ignite on the edge of space to propel into orbit a satellite weighing 37,700 pounds.

Moon Shot Thursday
The launching is the first of two scheduled from Cape Kennedy this week. Thursday, the Ranger 6 spacecraft is to be launched to the moon to take hundreds of closeup television pictures.

The Soviet Union's 14,292-pound Sputniks 7 and 8 are the heaviest man-made objects to achieve orbit. The United States' heavyweight entry was the 10,200 - pound Centaur launched in November.

Most of the Saturn 1 satellite consists of dead weight, including 11,600 pounds of sand for nose cone ballast and the 13,500-pound burned out second stage, which is to remain attached. The satellite carries a radio beacon for tracking, but no useful payload since the flight is a test.

Many U.S. experts believe the Saturn 1 rocket, with its high-energy hydrogen second stage, is the most powerful rocket in the world.

Norfolk Opens Up Memorial To Gen. MacArthur

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — This port city, long a center of military activity, has opened its memorial to General of the Army Douglas MacArthur, hero of two world wars.

Norfolk's century-old court-house building, which has been converted into a memorial building, was opened informally Sunday on the general's 84th birthday. The formal opening will be May 30 with MacArthur in attendance.

Former Mayor W. Fred Duckworth, who heads the MacArthur Memorial Foundation, said a nationwide campaign will begin soon to collect more than $5 million to build a second memorial building; establish a $3 million endowment fund to establish history professorships throughout the nation, and erect an American history building at old Dominion College here.

The memorial building, which contains MacArthur's decorations, and other memorabilia, eventually will house the bodies of MacArthur and his wife.

Lakes Seaway Study Ordered

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate commerce subcommittee will sit in Michigan Feb. 25 and 26 to consider St. Lawrence Seaway problems, Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., said today.

The subcommittee was established to study ways of boosting economic development of the seaway states and ship traffic in the Great Lakes.

Although the chairman of the subcommittee is Sen. Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, Hart said he will preside over the Michigan hearings. The first day's hearing will be in Muskegon, the other in Detroit.

Hart said the subcommittee will check into these questions: Are railroads setting rates to discourage shipments to seaway ports in favor of coastal cities?

Is there discrimination by the international shipping conferences which set ocean rates?

Is the seaway getting a fair share of government shipping? Why do so few American ships enter the seaway?

"Hopefully," Hart said, "these hearings will instruct us toward a course that will encourage better use of the seaway. We want to stimulate greater export and import traffic, greater domestic traffic."

Family Escapes Burning Home; Two In Hospital

Death was cheated by heroic efforts of Thomas Srock, 32-year-old father of five, and a neighbor, Joseph Young, when fire destroyed the Srock home early Sunday morning.

Srock and his eldest child, a son Steven, 6, are in St. Francis Hospital. The condition of the boy is good and that of the father fair. Only members of the family are permitted to visit Mr. Srock.

"We were awakened by what sounded like hail on the kitchen window," said Mrs. Srock. "It was the glass breaking with the heat. We both woke up about the same time."

Started In Garage

Gladstone and Escanaba's northside firemen were summoned to the scene at 5:23 a.m. Sunday. The Srock home, built only four years ago, was in the Sharkey Addition about one-half mile from Duranseau's corner on the Groos Hill.

The fire started in the attached garage, firemen said. The cause was not determined. The ranch-style home was one story.

Joseph Young, who lives across the street from the Srocks, said he was awakened "when we heard several small explosions." They noticed the flames.

"Dwayne Hoffman was there before I was," said Young. "He brought Mrs. Srock and some of the kids to our place."

Found On Floor

Young was told that Srock and one of the children was still in the house, which was exploding with flame as the blaze spread from the garage into the kitchen. Young broke open the window in the living room. He found the boy in the middle of the living room floor, unconscious. He dumped the boy's limp body out the window and returned to look for Srock.

"He was on the floor, face up, near the front door," said Young.

"Srock woke up when we got him out and said something about the baby being in there, but he was mistaken. He was the last one to come out."

'Con Game' Reported To Sault Police

SAULT STE. MARIE—City Police at Sault Ste. Marie have reported what appears to be a telephone "con game" involving phoned requests for money from New York City.

A Soo resident informed police that he had received a call from a person identifying himself as having just arrived in this country from Italy and needing money to help pay his fare to the Soo. The money was to be wired to a New York telephone number.

The name given the Soo resident was not familiar so he called the New York number which proved to be a telephone office. Office personnel there said the only time the man in question comes to the office is to pick up money orders. No money was sent by the Soo man.

Soo police relayed the information to the FBI agents at Marquette, who said this racket had been going on downstate for the past several weeks. All calls originated in New York.

Fish Producers Ask Research Revive Business

PETOSKEY (AP)—The Michigan Fish Producers Association today planned a request for federal government assistance in research and promotion—but said it does not seek tax dollars to help it recover from a botulism scare.

"We're not looking for a hand-out," said Executive Secretary Roy Jensen of Escanaba, "and we don't want the small business loan because that will not benefit the fishermen."

Instead, he said, his organization seeks the same help in research and promotion from government agencies that was provided the cranberry industry, which suffered temporarily some years ago when cranberries' effects on health were questioned.

Ten Resolutions Ask For Changes In Constitution

LANSING (AP)—Ten resolutions proposing changes in 41 sections of the new Constitution are being drafted for introduction in the legislature this week with a one-month deadline for passage.

If approved by lawmakers, the resolutions—distilled from several weeks of study by an informal, bi-partisan committee—would go on the ballot in a special election April 28.

Rep. E. D. O'Brien, D-Detroit, said Thursday the committee, of which he is co-chairman, faces "a tight schedule" in getting the resolution approved by Feb. 28.

That deadline he said, is necessary for the secretary of state to have the 60 days required by law to set up machinery for the special election in April.

Each of the resolutions covers one section of the new Constitution, and each will be voted on separately in the legislature, requiring a two-thirds vote of both chambers for approval.

O'Brien said the amendments in 41 sections were those which the committee felt were "absolutely necessary" for a decision by voters immediately.

Boiled down from an original list of approximately 100 proposed changes, the amendments would leave only two of the Constitution's 12 articles untouched.

Many lawmakers believe the proposed amendment with the best chance of acceptance in the legislature is that which would freeze the present legislative districts through Jan. 1, 1965.

This would, in effect, instruct the apportionment commission now working on a redistricting plan to "ignore" the 1964 election—and permit lawmakers to seek re-election in their present districts.

With the election being held April 28, the effective date of any amendments approved—45 days later—would fall on June 12, four days ahead of the deadline.

Dairy Income For U.P. Dips

Volume and income of the Upper Peninsula dairy industry declined in December, the U. S. Department of Agriculture announces.

The average (blend) price of milk was $3.778 per hundred-weight compared with $3.794 in December, 1962.

Producers' milk at test was worth $383,992 a decline of $2,208 from the figure for December, 1962 and production was 9.7 million pounds, off 25,310 pounds.

The percentage of milk marketed for drinking was up slightly and average daily producer receipts were $13.646 pounds, down slightly. The trend toward tank handling of milk while the total number of U. P. milk producers declined from 622 to 564 in a year, the number of tank producers increased from 267 to 367 and the number of can producers dropped from 355 to 197. Average income per producer for 7 day average was $153.74, compared with $140.20 a year ago.

Six Million Is Planned Outlay For Lakeshore

By KENNETH S. LOWE
MUNISING — A total of $6,490,645 would be spent on construction projects within five years after the Pictured Rocks National Lakeshore is established, according to Henry Schmidt, Houghton, superintendent of Isle Royale National Park.

Speaking at a day-long meeting of the Tourist and Recreation Committee of the Upper Peninsula Committee on Area Problems (UPCAP) here Friday, Schmidt projected development of the national lakeshore if Congress approves the proposal for a 65,611-acre park area in Alger County.

Schmidt, who said a Senate subcommittee hearing on the proposed lakeshore probably will be held in April, stated that four to six National Park Service workers would be assigned to the area in the first year following its establishment. They would serve as an appraisal team to arrange for purchase of private lands in the area.

During the second year, a superintendent, an acquisition manager, administrative assistant, park manager, chief ranger and their staffs probably would be assigned to the lakeshore, along with life guards and first aid specialists. Two more rangers probably would be added in the third year.

Construction Plans
Construction crews, a park engineer, various foremen, laborers, etc. would be assigned to the area in the fourth year, bringing a payroll of between $177,000 to $200,000.

Staffing for the next two years would depend on the needs of the project and the amount of development completed, Schmidt said.

Construction during the first five years would include 16 residences, six seasonal units, six seasonal apartments, equipment storage buildings, 43 miles of roads (at a cost of about $3,440,000), bridges, parking areas, hiking trails, a headquarters building, campground circles, comfort stations, 50 campground units, 10 picnic units, Adirondack shelters and various utilities. Facilities within the lakeshore to which the public would be invited would be available during the second year following establishment of the park, Schmidt said.

The committee heard comments from proponents and opponents of the proposal.

CCI's Position
"The Cleveland-Cliffs Iron Co. has never opposed the park in principle, but has had some differences with the Federal Government over the size of the park," said Ogden E. Johnson, Ishpeming, director of industrial relations for CCI.

Cliffs is the largest land owner in the proposed park area, holding about 25,000 acres.

Johnson pointed out that his company had begun working on a $1,500,000 sawmill near the proposed lakeshore before CCI knew that the government was planning a park there. He said 75 people are employed at the mill.

David West, Ishpeming, chief forester for CCI, said that between 10 and 15 per cent of the mill's requirements are supplied, on the average, from within the 30,000 inner or inviolate boundary of the proposed lakeshore.

"The reason this area is desirable for park purposes is that CCI has practiced selective cutting in the area since the early 1940's," Johnson said.

Some Exchange Urged
Pointing out that 38 per cent of Alger County is now in government ownership, he said CCI's objections to the proposal are three-fold: (1) The company believes the (federal owned) inner boundary could be "pulled in" (reduced in area); (2) there is no need for the 36,000-acre (privately owned) outside or buffer zone and (3) the federal government should exchange land with CCI for its timber holdings in the area in order to provide raw material for the mill.

"We believe some land exchange should be made," said Don Desotell, Houghton, representing the Upper Peninsula Power Co.

and the Alger County Board of Supervisors are on record in favor of this project and we feel UPCAP should take a stand on it," said Munising Mayor Leo Gariepy.

"Parks belong where native resources are available," said Glenn Gregg, Marquette, regional parks and recreation supervisor for the Michigan Conservation Department. "People are drawn to areas simply because of the attraction of the National Park Service name. I feel that to preserve this area is a very important step."

Dr. O. Uel Blank, Lansing, assistant director of Michigan State University's Institute for Community Development, cited statistics pointing up the growth in tourism and recreation. "We need a lot more developments like the Big Bay (tourist railroad) across the U.P. if we're going to shake the Peninsula out of its stagnated situation in recreation."

$155,000 Tourism Aid In U.P. Seen Assured

A technical assistance project proposal calling for $155,354 for development of tourism and recreation in the Upper Peninsula is expected to be approved by the Area Redevelopment Administration.

"It's our understanding that this project is going to be okayed," said Abram Snyder, Marquette, community development specialist for Michigan State University Extension Service.

The proposal was discussed at a day-long meeting in Munising Friday of the tourism and recreation committee of the Upper Peninsula Committee on Area Problems (UPCAP.)

UPCAP is asking the ARA to provide $50,000 of the $155,354. Of the rest, Michigan State University is committed to provide $85,354. The balance $20,000, would be supplied by "sources within the state and the Upper Peninsula."

Primary objective of the project would be to increase employment in tourism and recreation by augmenting the tourist flow and increasing investment in the tourist industry.

UPCAP's project summary proposes to augment tourist flow by:

"1. Identifying and planning development of recreational attractions throughout the entire region.

"2. Defining the qualitative standards for tourist services and facilities which will best meet the demand situation currently prevailing in the industry.

"3. Formulating a broad promotional program for the region as vacationland, based on knowledge developed by the project."

The summary states that increased investment — both public and private — in the tourist industry could be achieved by making available to investors.

"1. Information on market potential.

"2. Design recommendations for a variety of sites to be used on attracting potential investors.

"3. Suggestions for reorienting or modernizing outdated facilities which have promise of expanded patronage."

The proposed 2-year operation has been 15 months in preparation, Snyder said.

The most logical prime contractor for the project, UPCAP said, would be Michigan State University.

MSU officials pointed out at the meeting that MSU's contribution to the project does not represent new budget money but a realignment of existing funds.

"It's phenomenal for MSU to realign some of its services to carry out this project," said Clare A. Gunn, Lansing, tourist and resort specialist for MSU. "This means some other areas of the state will have less service from the university."

Dr. O. Uel Blank, Lansing, assistant director of MSU's Institute for Community Development of an investment in the area that will bring more people to the Upper Peninsula. He said the nature and site of this development has not yet been determined.

Farm Crop Of Fun

The U.S. Department of Agriculture announces its approval of the first conversion of an Upper Peninsula farm from production of crops to provision of recreational facilities as a source of income. The conversion is under a $10 million-a-year program of the Department of Agriculture which pays farmers benefits for the conversion from cropland (to reduce the farm surplus) and shares costs of certain practices like tree planting, pond building, stream improvement, wildlife habitat development, etc.

Many persons will regard government spending on conversion of private farms into picnic areas and hunting grounds as the biggest boondoggle since the leaf raking of the early Depression. The Federal Government has built up the problem of farm crop surplus by refusing to let natural economic laws of supply and demand prevail. It continued a war-born program of incentives into peacetime and produced more than the market would buy.

From having originally been a program of incentives to get enough food to maintain our war effort and that of our allies, the farm support program became a welfare program to sustain farmers caught in a cost-price squeeze. It subsidized farmers, and, in the way that government efforts so often turn out, it helped the big farmers more than it did the little ones whom it was trying to save.

The farm surplus is one of our great domestic economic problems. Economists predict that our changing society, which is now more urban than rural for the first time in our history, will eventually insist on cutting tax payments to farmers for crop subsidies. Farmers cite that many segments of the American economy are subsidized and that they have provided America with food so plentiful, and so cheap and of such high quality that never in history have any people been so well fed nor for so little as Americans today.

But organizations like the American Farm Bureau Federation, our largest farmer group, want the government to get out of the farming business. It maintains that support prices mean inevitable controls and that government regulation of agriculture leads to its long time injury.

While the government is subsidizing crop production with one hand and working with the other hand to restrict surpluses which this system creates, it welcomes an opportunity to get some farms out of production. One new way of doing this is to make them productive of recreation instead of crops.

Grandpa would have put in a call for the white-jacketed boys at Newberry if it had been suggested to him that he get a government check for planting a rabbit briar, but it makes sense to Congress. It's going to get a few more farms out of production and cut crop surpluses proportionately. And it should ease the demands for more tax money to acquire public park lands. It will subsidize new pay-to-play businesses in the country.

The Upper Peninsula has had only a little taste of this type of business, like the Garrison pheasant hunt at Fairborn, but it has a big potential. Prof. Louis Twardzik of Michigan State University says that private enterprise can now become a competitor with government recreation facilities and that this private sector is a chief hope of America's ability to cope adequately with the growing demand for outdoor recreation facilities.

So any criticism of government support of farm conversion to recreational usage shouldn't discredit the essential soundness of this new business. The subsidy in these pilot projects may be questioned, but the conversion should not. It should be encouraged by local communities as a contribution to their resources for a big new industry, the private provision of facilities for outdoor recreation.

People who can't get into overcrowded state parks will seek out these places and find that they provide some new dimensions and pleasures in outdoor enjoyment.

"Relax, Cherie, He's Almost Housebroken!"

Washington Comment

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Despite his talk of austerity, President Johnson has planned his budget so that—if it passes—there will be a hefty increase in federal government spending and contract-letting this summer and fall.

This corresponds roughly to the period of the 1964 presidential campaign.

Johnson's advisers have been worried that the boom of the past few years could peak this summer and begin to die down toward autumn. This would, of course, be an unhappy situation. It would be especially embarrassing to Johnson running for re-election. The new spending is aimed at those items which would give the economy a quick shot in the arm—so that any economic lag will be postponed until 1965.

During much of the April 1 to December 1, 1964, period, if the Johnson budget passes as he presented it, federal spending will be running at a rate $2.5 billion to $3.7 billion a year higher than last summer and fall.

During this period also, the federal government will be letting contracts, making spending agreements and announcing spending plans at a rate from $6 billion to $8 billion a year higher than in the summer and fall of 1963. Especially heavy contract-letting will begin about May and run high through November.

Johnson's advisers expect the hefty effects of the tax cut, if passed by March 1, to really begin to hit in the months of September and October, 1964. They think consumer spending will rise to a rate $4.5 billion a year higher than in the same period of 1963.

Counting supplementary budget bills, Johnson is calling for an increase of something around $10 billion in new obligatory authority for the period from approximately March 1, 1964, to June 30, 1965.

Notwithstanding emphasis on economy, Johnson is calling for a direct increase of $3 billion in federal spending during that period and indirect increases of $1 billion to $2 billion more. This does not include any supplemental funds he may ask for in January 1965.

Much of this increased spending will go directly or fairly directly to individuals in ways designed to heavily raise consumer spending.

Sizable amounts of the increase will be paid out in quick turnover, shot-in-the-arm-money—additional welfare, unemployment and salary payments, youth work projects, aid to students and teachers. Less will be spent on major capital investment, missiles, military research.

The budget aims not at building new industrial capacity but at getting what's in existence to run at full employment.

Johnson is making a quick stab at cutting unemployment down below 5 per cent in October 1965 (if only temporarily), though some of his advisers think this can't be done, even with this pump priming. He's seeking quick boosts for certain sections of the economy that shows signs of lagging in late 1964—housing, foreign trade, some manufacturing industries.

Housing is a key target. As one expert puts it: "The growth exhibited by residential construction during 1962 and 1963 was one of the major factors in supporting the prolonged recovery. The outlook for next years mixed... The boom... may have run its course."

This explains Johnson's heavy budget requests for housing funds.

HUNTING SEASON

I don't know how many sportsmen read the article that Rep. Clifford Perras had in the Escanaba Daily Press Jan. 20, but I do know that we should take advantage of what Mr. Perras wants to do for us.

Here is a man that is willing to go to bat for us and try to get a satisfactory opening date for all deer hunters. Last year there were many who were dissatisfied because the season opened too early. I personally was very much against it, but could do nothing about it.

This year we are more fortunate than last year. Why? Because we have Rep. Perras to do our fighting for us. All we have to do is sacrifice two minutes of our time, a five cent postcard and write and tell him the date you want to hunt deer.

If you are really interested in this coming deer season, you will drop that postcard in the mail as soon as you can. Don't put it off. Remember last deer season? We were cheated out of Thanksgiving hunting also. To a lot of us that is actually the only time we can get off to hunt. Take advantage of Rep. Perras' offer... act now.

If you're not interested don't bother to write, but don't squawk next deer season if it's not to your liking. Let's show them that we hunters in the U.P. can stand on our own two feet and hunt deer when we want to and not when some other part of the state wants to.

Jules J. Potvin
Gladstone

(Rep. Perras, State Capitol, Lansing, asked hunters to write him "whether they want the deer season Nov. 15-30, or opening on the Saturday preceding Nov. 15 and running for 15 days."

Report Three Auto Mishaps

State Police of the Gladstone Post investigated three traffic mishaps over the past weekend, one in which the driver was hospitalized.

Robert J. Johnson, 32, of 900 2nd Ave. S., is reported in "fairly good" condition today from injuries he suffered Saturday at 11 p.m. after his car went out of control and struck the bridge abutment at the Escanaba River on U.S. 2-41.

State Police said that Johnson was traveling north on U.S. 2-41 when it went out of control on the slippery pavement, crossed the divider strip and struck the bridge. They said the car traveled 165-feet before hitting the bridge. Johnson sustained bruises and abrasions in the mishap.

Johnson was ticketed for violation of the basic speed law, too fast for conditions, and for no valid operator's license.

Ronald Duwe, 21, of 1122 N. 18th St., was ticketed for violation of the basic speed law, too fast for conditions, following an accident at 11 a.m. Saturday on M-35 at the intersection of County Road 436, two miles south of Rock.

Officers said Duwe told them he had just passed a car ahead of him and his vision was temporarily obscured by the blowing snow. It cleared, and he saw a car driven by George Lusardi, 85, of Rte. 1, Rock, had slowed just ahead of him to make a right-hand turn. Duwe was unable to stop in time and his car struck Lusardi's. No one was injured.

State Police also ticketed Lee Cretnens, 18, of 556 N. 8th St., Gladstone, for violation of the basic speed law, following an accident Sunday at 5:20 a.m. on U.S. 2, one mile east of Ensign.

Officers said that Cretnens told them he was travelling east on U.S. 2 2 when the wheels of his car dropped on to the right shoulder of the road causing him to lose control of the vehicle. The car veered across to the opposite side of the road where it rolled over. Cretnens was not injured.

The Doctor Says: 'Smothering' Discounted

By Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.

No greater tragedy can befall a mother than to find her baby dead in the crib. It is estimated that more than 10,000 such deaths occur in the United States every year.

The babies are usually between 2 and 6 months old. The deaths are in the country and in the city, in the homes of both rich and poor.

Most of the other causes of death in this age group have been brought under control.

Thanks to increased concentration on the problem of these crib deaths there is a good chance that they, too, can be eliminated.

Forty or 50 years ago these deaths were attributed to an enlarged thymus. Autopsies showed that this gland was much larger in all these babies than in infants who died of infectious diseases. However, this theory had to be abandoned when it was found that babies who died of skull fracture or other severe accidents also had a large thymus.

We now know that all healthy babies have a large thymus, needed to throw off an infection.

The next theory to gain popularity was that these babies, whose faces were often found buried in their pillows or whose heads were covered by their blankets, had smothered to death. This theory placed an unfair burden of guilt on the mothers, many of who never forgave themselves for their "neglect."

Fortunately, this idea was disproved by a courageous doctor who placed infants face down on their pillows, then covered their heads with blankets. He found that even the youngest ones had no difficulty in fighting their way into the open.

The doctors next turned to viruses and other infections as a possible cause, but this, too, proved to be a blind alley. Now Dr. Daniel Stowens and co-workers at the University of Louisville have made a series of significant observations.

Almost all the babies who are victims of this mysterious disease are bottle-fed. A severe type of allergy—anaphylactic—are still being studied.

Fargo Shows It Can Cure Blight

How Fargo, N.D., met and resolved problems of an obsolete section of its downtown area provides a case study for an urban renewal report issued today by the Upper Midwest Economic Study.

The Fargo project, first of its kind undertaken in the Upper Midwest outside of the Twin Cities, is used in the report to illustrate that, although the urban renewal task usually involves various economic sectors and levels of government, "responsibility is largely a local affair."

Fargo achieved its success "locally and democratically" in clearing and redeveloping approximately seven blocks at the edge of its central business district. Local interests "provided 88 per cent of the money and virtually all of the initiative and effort." The current report is one of a series of urban studies by a special staff of the Twin Cities Metropolitan Planning Commission and the Upper Midwest Research and Development Council will use the results in its program to stimulate economic growth of the Ninth Federal Reserve

District, including the Upper Peninsula.

In a survey of 14 other communities, from 17,000 down to 500 population, needs and opportunities similar to those in Fargo were found. Blight scores in these communities ranged from 3.6 to 29.4 per cent. Generally the region's urban physical plant is in "fair condition" and its replacement rate is "moderately high" compared with the national norm.

In places over 5,000 population, blight "tends to concentrate in certain districts, as it does in metropolitan centers." Towns below 2,500 population have a "larger per cent of substandard buildings which are scattered throughout the built-up area." All 14 communities, however, have common renewal needs in both neglected residential areas and in redevelopment of central commercial districts.

Three courses of action indicated are (1) extension of utilities and street improvements, (2) loosening of credit for new building improvements for sections black-listed by credit agencies, and (3) removal of nuisances from residential areas by zoning regulations.

For smaller places the report recommended organizing regional associations of municipalities to spread costs of retaining expert assistance and help from expanded services of land-grant colleges and universities, municipal leagues and state planning departments.

The Fargo project began with the preparation of a "master plan" by a professional consultant and went through phases of getting enabling state legislation, establishment of a Fargo Urban Renewal Agency, voting a bond issue for a city hall-auditorium, mill levy authorization, and federal aid approval. Tangible accomplishment began in 1958 with land appraisal, followed by demolition activities.

Since 1960 the Fargo Urban Renewal Agency has recovered half of its total outlay from sales to private developers. Assessed taxable valuation is three times more than it was before the plan was initiated.

Medals Given 4 In Michigan

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP)—The Carnegie Hero Fund Commission has recommended citations to four Michigan residents, including a 13-year-old schoolboy, for heroic rescues within the past three years.

Recommended for bronze medals and $500 cash awards are: Ronald L. Stafford, 13, of 404 Ruddiman Drive; North Muskegon, and Mrs. Elizabeth L. Eymmer, 45, of 308 West Michigan Ave., Oscoda. Recommended for a bronze medal and $750 cash awards are: Leonard M. Stuttmann, 37, of 2331 Forest Road; Lansing, and Donald L. Taggart, 34, of 212 Haines St., Dowagiac.

Rescuer Breaks Ice

The Stafford boy was cited for his Jan. 25, 1962, rescue of 4-year-old Jon E. Wight, of North Muskegon. Jon, a non-swimmer, fell through ice on the Bear Lake Channel extension, and submerged in 10 feet of water.

Although numbed by icy water, Ronald swam to the boy's rescue, breaking ice with his arms, and towed Jon back to the bank where a passerby helped pull both boys to safety. Jon recovered.

Mrs. Eymmer, a housewife, saved another non-swimmer, 5-year-old Virginia R. Cook, from drowning on March 13, 1961, in an Oscoda bayou. The citation said that Mrs. Eymmer, summoned by a playmate, crawled onto the ice-covered bayou to within five feet of Virginia, and lying prone, extended her arms to the child.

Virginia, reassured by Mrs. Eymmer, managed to crawl out, but went under again when a section of ice beneath her gave way. Mrs. Eymmer held on and was pulled into the water, but managed to right herself and tow the child to shore where a man pulled both ashore.

Pinned In Locomotive
Stuttman, an educational film producer, was cited for the rescue of Arnold W. Silver, 68, a locomotive engineer, and his attempts to save fireman John H. Mallette, 38, from suffocation near Charlotte on April 18, 1963.

The two victims were pinned inside the locomotive's cab when their train derailed. Both were severely injured.

Stuttman, a passenger on the train, climbed aboard the overturned cab, and despite dense smoke from burning diesel oil, smashed through the cab's side window, and lowered his head and shoulders through the opening, directed Silver to free himself, and pulled him out.

With flames five feet high burning 10 feet away, Stuttman crawled back up the slippery sides of the locomotive and lowered himself inside the smoke-filled cab in search of Mallette. The smoke forced Stuttman out, but he obtained a length of wire from a baggageman, attached it to his belt, and re-entered the cab. Stuttman was forced out again and masked firemen eventually rescued Mallette after dousing the fire with water. Silver recovered after two months in a hospital but Mallette died 10 days later.

Pulled To Safety
Taggart, a factory worker, saved Mrs. Manila Bounds, 37, from being killed by a train at Dowagiac on May 2, 1962.

Firm Building Road Across Witch Lake

IRON MOUNTAIN — A finger of fill — which eventually will be capped by a blacktop highway — is pushing its way steadily across Witch Lake in Marquette County.

The big project is part of the eight mile M-95 highway project of the Bacco Construction Co., of Iron Mountain, which is scheduled for completion in 1965.

Men and machinery are loading fill into the lake. The base for the highway will extend 700 feet across the lake when completed. This big fill project was started about three weeks ago, and is expected to be completed in another month.

Presently, the fill extends 30 feet above the surface of the lake. Fill is being dumped into 35 feet of water, which then pushes into a muck base estimated to be 30 feet deep. This totals out to about 95 feet from the top of the fill to where it finally settles at the bottom of the muck.

When final grading starts prior to the actual construction of the roadway, the base will extend between 10 and 12 feet above the water.

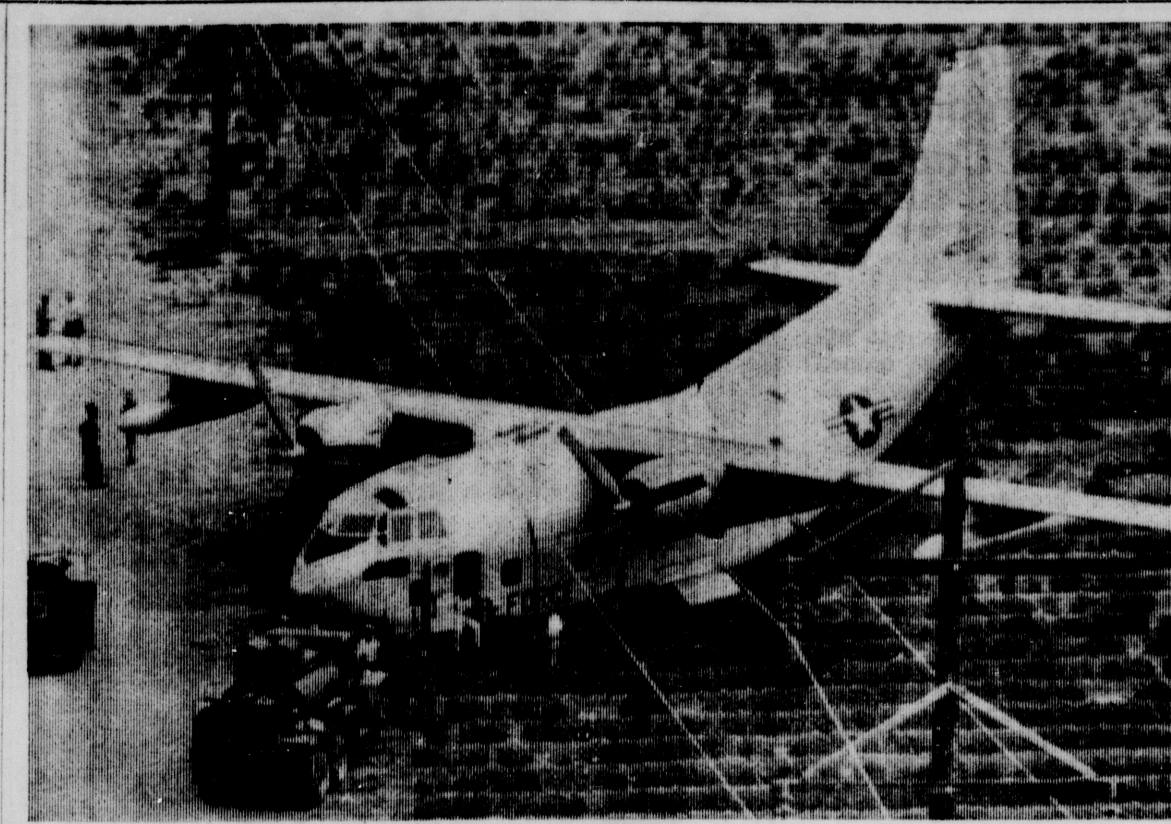

The roadway is being built across the lake to eliminate several dangerous curves on the present M-95 roadway in the Witch Lake area.

Zoo Head Dies Of Snake Bite

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—The City Zoo's curator, Jerry De Bary, 37, died today after hours of agony from the bite of a deadly African snake.

De Bary, bitten Saturday night when he suffered a dizzy spell while cleaning the puff adder's cage, died at 6:30 a.m. after a day and a half of what friends said was excruciating pain.

The venom attacks the nervous system, causing muscle spasm and paralysis. De Bary's heart stopped temporarily more than once. Breathing was nearly impossible at times. A resuscitator had to be used and an opening was made in De Bary's windpipe to help him breathe.

Puff adder snake serum was flown by Navy jet from the San Diego, Calif., Zoo. More was ordered from Southern Rhodesia. The puff adder is a native of South Africa and that's where the serum is made.

The serum from South Africa was ordered by Sister Mary Gerald, superior at Salt Lake City's Holy Cross Hospital, where De Bary was treated. Sister Mary telephoned a sister, Mrs. Peggy Forrester, in Salisbury, Southern Rhodesia, for the serum.

But De Bary, a native of Switzerland, died before it arrived.

Seven Injured, 86 Jailed In Atlanta Fights

ATLANTA (AP)—Racial demonstrations in downtown Atlanta Sunday resulted in the arrest of 86 persons in the wake of an inspection tour by a United Nations anti-discrimination group.

At least seven persons were injured in the demonstrations, which flared anew Sunday night. A Negro trusty suffered a broken leg while scuffling with demonstrators at the city jail.

A policeman, H.A. Wagner, suffered a head injury when he was pushed to the pavement as Negroes attempted to enter a segregated restaurant.

The restaurant, "Leb's," has been the scene of demonstrations for several weeks. The demonstrations became more intensified this weekend with the appearance of the U.N. sub-commission in Atlanta.

The demonstrations began about noon Sunday and continued until shortly before midnight.

Sawyers' Course At Tech May Be First In Nation

HOUGHTON — Instruction was centered on the band saw at Michigan Tech's Ford Forestry Center during the week as some 20 sawyers from Michigan and Wisconsin progressed in what is believed the first course of its type to be taught in the nation.

Under the direction of the technological university's continuing education department, the practical skills were being illustrated on such woods as white pine, hemlock, maple, birch, elm and ash.

Only the band saw is being emphasized for the present in the sawmill cutting. The carriage is automatic, edging and trimming ensues after the sawing. The sawyers are concerned with all these procedures.

Most of the men taking the course are in the 30 year old category and there is a big demand for their services following graduation. It is generally accepted that most of the band saw sawyers in sawmills today are in the 65 year old bracket.

The men started their studying and laboratory work on Dec. 16 and they will not terminate the course until July.

The incentive for the Sawyer (entry) course originated with the university's forestry division and is being promoted by the U.S. Manpower Development Training program.

Motorists who visit at Ford Forestry Center these days are pleased to hear the buzz of the band saw and the whir of the edger and trimming machinery once more. Many can recall the days when the Alberta sawmill was producing 15,000 board feet of lumber each day for the Ford Motor Co.

Under university auspices, the sawmill in the town of exactly a dozen houses, each with a different style of architecture, has changed but little.

It is still the spotlessly clean plant it was when it was operating under the control of the late Baraga County admiral, Henry Ford Sr.

Kelley Protests Abandoning Of Straits Ferries

LANSING (AP)—Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley will appear today at a meeting called in Cheboygan to protest the proposed discontinuance of car ferry service across the Straits of Mackinac.

Kelley last week filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission in Washington, D. C., a formal objection to the plan of the Mackinac Transportation Co. to abandon its ferry service to Mackinac City and St. Ignace.

The New York Central Railroad seeks to end its rail service to the Upper Peninsula, contingent on termination of the ferry service.

Casket Of Pope Won't Be Moved

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Paul VI has decided to keep the remains of Pope John XXIII permanently in a Vatican crypt, a Vatican source reports.

Pope John had asked for eventual burial in the basilica of St. John Lateran in Rome. Consideration for thousands of visitors who descend steps beneath St. Peter's Basilica to pray before Pope John's resting place each week was said to have figured in Pope Paul's decision.

NEW YORK (AP)—Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home of Great Britain says "it is possible to argue that people become less Communist when they are more comfortable, and that, by and large, is our point of view."

He gave that explanation for Britain's continued trade with Cuba. Douglas-Home said it is "wrong to deprive any people of food or of the ordinary means of living."

The prime minister appeared on the Columbia Broadcasting System's "Face the Nation."

NEW DELHI (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru sat for 2 1/2 hours Sunday reviewing a parade marking India's 14th anniversary as a republic. It was the 74-year-old Nehru's first public event since he suffered a mild stroke 19 days ago. He appeared feeble.

Disabled Troop Carrier Lands In Tomato Patch

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A crippled troop cargo plane with 16 men aboard landed safely in a field of tomatoes only a few feet short of a high-voltage power line Sunday.

If the C123 had hit the line "with all that fuel on board, plus a full supply of liquid oxygen, there wouldn't have been any plane left," said an Air Force fire chief.

No one was hurt. The plane, based at Plattsburg (N.Y.) Air Force Base, had flown only nine miles from nearby Homestead Air Force Base when one engine went out.

Top Beefs Listed On College Girls

Dear Ann Landers: I've heard considerable rumbling on campus as a result of that letter signed, "Betty Co-Ed." It seems Betty polled her sorority sisters then sent you a list of their major beefs against college men.

You offered Joe College equal time and space. I haven't taken a poll but I've sat in on enough bull sessions to know what guys hate most about dames. The monster gripe is the girl who won't let you get near her because it might wreck her hair-do.

Last week I had a date with a doll who whipped out a lace hairnet when I went to kiss her goodnight. She reminded me of my grandmother. And that's exactly the kind of kiss I gave her, too.—BROWN HOWL

From Boston: The pet hates in Beantown and surrounding territory are what we men call "phony foolers." They are, in order of their offensiveness:

- (1) falsies
- (2) girdles
- (3) false eyelashes
- (4) wigs
- (5) white lipstick

Michigan State: My candidate for jerque of the year is the female who mooches cigarettes. It's bad enough to see a dame smoke but when she insists on smoking my cigarettes all evening I do a little burning myself.

Stanford: Down with the frail who smuggles, coos, sighs, makes with the come-on, does everything but give you an engraved invitation. Then, when you do what comes naturally—pow—right in the kisser. Teasers should be banished from the face of the earth.

Northwestern University: My Number One gripe is the telephones at dorms and sorority houses. I'd like to have a dime for every time I just gave up in sheer disgust and called an in-town girl whose telephone was free.

Notre Dame: Speaking only for myself I nominate as Pill of The Year the girl who insists on pumping a man for information about what other girls do. I can't imagine why they'd be interested, but an awful lot of them are.

University of Oklahoma: Thumbs down on the girl who says when you ask for a date: "I will have to let you know." Any idiot can translate that line. It means in plain English, "If I don't get a better offer in a few days I'll settle for you, Bob." When I get this sort of stall I chop her dead.

Penn. State: We hate the date who is late. Especially if it means beatin' the gums for 30 minutes with her old man or her kid sister while she's up there putting on a fourth layer of barn paint or spraying her head with glue.

Reed College: My loudest bleat is against the dame who, when the romance is dead as a mackerel, trots out your letters, notes, pictures and other love relics and entertains her girl friends with them.

University of Washington: I can't stand the girl who doesn't know her limit and gets sick in your car. Usually this happens when she switches from beer to martinis or goes to vodka from bourbon. Anyway it's a mess and the chick who doesn't know better gets no second chance with me.

Goebel Brewery Will Reorganize For New Capital

DETROIT (AP) — The Goebel Brewing Co., a 91-year-old Detroit firm, was granted a petition for reorganization in U. S. District Court Friday.

Judge Ralph M. Freeman approved the petition and named former U. S. Atty. George E. Woods as trustee to operate the business and manage the property.

Goebel president Erwin H. Haass told the court the company needs new capital which he said could be obtained only through a "recasting of present stock interests and an alteration modification of the rights of unsecured creditors."

After the petition was granted, Haass said he felt sure Goebel could reestablish itself as a leading brewery.

Charming Store
Clerk May Be A
Counter Spy

NEW YORK (AP) — For all you know the pleasant sales clerk who helped you select the exactly right shade of gloves to match your suit is a counter spy. Some of the clerks are.

She is not watching you, though. The department store detectives are probably doing that.

She may be adding up evidence against a slippery fingered co-worker with whom she lunches daily in the employee cafeteria.

Or she may squeal soon on the handsome buyer in infant-wear with whom she flirts outrageously.

For she, with the fake name and the phony background, is one of dozens of undercover operators provided by a shortage controls company here.

Chic, personable, and knowledgeable about nearly all aspects of retailing, these lady agents specialize in ferreting out personnel who in one way or another pocket the store's profits.

The length of time on a job varies from a few days to several months. The cases cover everything from the petty pilfering of a part-time employee to the grand larceny of the president's grandson.

Although the teen-age crowd works cheaper, says tall, shapely blonde Miss X, their fingers are stickier than their seasoned God-and-detective-fearing seniors. Their thefts are minor at first but they quickly grow into alarming and expensive proportions.

Nor are these charming counter spies particularly dazzled by success. To the contrary, the clerk with unwavering customer loyalty may very well be the object of their suspicions. Very often, says Miss X, the sales lady owes her popularity to huge, unauthorized discounts.

Their collusion with the customers is easily accomplished by remarking or switching sales tags. The clerk profits by her commission and the stores lose plenty.

Unfortunately, Miss X and the others in her unique occupation become extremely fond of some of the people they are paid to spy upon. Indeed, raving on the buyer boyfriend has wrecked some potentially beautiful romances.

"That's the really heart-breaking part of this job," says Miss X, heaving a sigh. "But our loyalty belongs to the store."

If you keep buffet-size cans (between 8 and 9 ounces) of small green peas on your pantry shelves, you'll find them convenient to add to creamed ham, chicken, salmon or tuna for a quick luncheon or supper dish.

Trailblazer helps give construction crews the finest training at the lowest cost.

The latest techniques are explained, then demonstrated with actual equipment.

New classroom on wheels brings school to the man

This is the Trailblazer, Michigan Bell's new mobile classroom—specially equipped for teaching the latest construction techniques to the telephone men who install and maintain our cables.

The Trailblazer can be moved quickly to any Michigan community for class sessions, then on to another, and another, until every construction crew in the state has been covered. A complete circuit takes about 90 days.

By going to employees, the Trailblazer makes it unnecessary for the men to travel great distances for their training. It keeps entire crews of highly trained men where they're needed, to maintain your telephone service at its trouble-free best.

Developed by Michigan Bell, the Trailblazer is another example of your telephone company's determination to keep the quality of service high—and the cost low.

The Manistique district of Hiawatha National Forest has eight timber cuttings underway in areas where the operation is beneficial to deer.

A better cedar market has prevailed in the past few years with purchases by fence companies. Posts and cabin timber are being cut. The cutting leaves boughs for the deer herd, which is fairly well yarded despite a lesser amount of snow.

The Hiawatha forest has the second largest timber cut planned in the region for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1964, with Superior the highest at 51 million feet. The Hiawatha cut is set for 37 million.

Police Report 3 Accidents

Public Safety Officers investigated three accidents Saturday afternoon. No one was injured.

At 3 p. m., at the Main and Terrace intersection a car driven by Mrs. Roland (Dorothy) Hoholik of Deer St., was struck in the right front by a car driven by Perry Pat Rosebush, of Rte. 1, Gulliver. Rosebush was ticketed for failure to yield right of way. His car had extensive front end damage.

Officers said he was turning left from Terrace to Main and nosed out into traffic due to poor visibility resulting from parked cars near the hospital. Mrs. Hoholik was going east on Main.

On U.S. 2 at the M 219 intersection, also at 3 p. m., a car driven by Eric Blomquist, 16 of 134 S. Mackinac turned into a Midland Superior Express tractor-trailer, while turning left from the right lane, without signalling. The truck was operated by David Logozar, 39, of Kinsella, Alberta, and was passing. Both were going south on Chippewa. The Blomquist car had extensive damage to the left side.

In a third accident, in a grocery parking lot on Deer St., cars driven by Mrs. John (Dorothy) Barr, of 924 Deer St., and Theodore J. Linck of 128 N. 1st St., were damaged while both were backing, at 2:45 p. m.

Gaylord Stores May Go Alpine

GAYLORD (AP)—This northern Michigan ski resort center may soon take on the appearance of a Swiss Alpine village complete with heavy hewed timbers, gaily colored panels, window boxes and shutters.

Twenty-six of the town's businessmen have signed agreements to have an architectural firm make preliminary sketches of their downtown store fronts for the eventual conversion to a Tyrol or Swiss design.

The idea was conceived about 15 years ago by the late Don McLouth, founder of the nearby Otsego Ski Club, but it lost momentum with McLouth's death.

Son Of Founder Of Historical Collection Dies

DETROIT (AP) — Frank Burton, 77, chairman of the Burton Abstract & Title Co. and son of the founder of the Detroit Public Library's Burton Historical Collection, died at his home Sunday.

Burton, an engineer and one-time city commissioner of building and safety engineering, leaves his widow, Bernice, Burton's father, Clarence M. Burton, founded the Burton Collection years ago. The collection includes old documents and maps depicting early Detroit and Michigan history. Burton's father founded the abstract and title company.

State Briefs

CHICAGO (AP) — Davenport Associates of Grand Rapids was awarded the architectural and engineering services contract for the design of a new $348,000 post office and federal building at Grand Haven, Mich., Saturday, the General Services Administration announced.

DETROIT (AP) — Non-cigarette smokers should pay lower rates for life insurance in view of the government report on smoking's effect on health, State Insurance Commissioner Allen L. Mayerson suggested Saturday.

HEEL AND TOE

CHICAGO (AP)—An automobile designer has come up with a brake and accelerator combination on one pedal.

Product Engineering, a trade publication, reports that it may lessen the time it takes to move the foot from accelerator to brake, preventing fatal accidents.

The top portion of the gas pedal is linked with the engine accelerator and speeds and slows the car. The lower portion of the pedal can be depressed with the heel to brake the car.

BURROW FOR QUIET

CHICAGO (AP) — The noise problem from a nearby Air Force base will be less of a problem when a Fort Worth, Tex., suburb builds its next school.

It's to be built underground.

The present school is 1.5 miles from the main runway. School officials say landing and takeoff noise results in loss of up to 10 per cent of a student's instruction time.

The idea was revived a year and a half ago by Gordon Everett, publisher of a shopping guide, who sought a way to dress up store fronts in the block in which his business was located.

Everett took pictures of the store fronts and had the Bloomfield Hills and Bellaire architectural firm of Betrow and Brown make a sketch transforming the stores to the "Tyrol Look."

The Otsego County Chamber of Commerce liked the idea and turned it over to a community development committee, which launched a survey to determine opinions, questions and criticisms.

The climax of the survey was a mass meeting of businessmen Jan. 15 at which a team of experts answered questions and criticisms uncovered in the survey.

This was followed by the 26 signed agreements.

One store, convinced that the project will go over, has completely rebuilt its interior and part of the exterior using the Tyrolean architecture.

Other businessmen, liking the look, have started working with the contractor on converting store fronts and the new Gaylord State Bank and a new variety store, both under construction, are incorporating the theme.

Tobacco Also Has Pesticides

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the news from Washington:

Cigarettes: Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., has scheduled hearings beginning Feb. 4 to find out how much pesticide gets into a cigarette, into its smoke and into its smoker.

Ribicoff said this round of government operations subcommittee hearings on pesticides was prompted by the surgeon general's report on smoking and health.

"The smoking report confirms the information we have been gathering that pesticides, used on tobacco plants, end up in detectable quantities in cigarettes," he said.

Surgeon Gen. Luther L. Terry said, meanwhile, that he sees no need for legislation to help the public health service alert Americans to the Health Hazard cigarette smoking poses.

Annual report: The American Red Cross reported Sunday that it spent $99,154,343 in the fiscal year ended June 30 and took in $102,306,313.

The principal item of expense was work with the armed forces — $38,334,105. Disaster operations cost $9,221,337 and the blood bank $14,035,651.

Among the listed expenses was $3,035,503 for fund raising.

Ambassador: In his three years in office President Kennedy appointed more than 100 ambassadors. The result was an almost complete turnover in the ambassadorial list since there are 109 U.S. diplomatic missions abroad.

Red Mass: President Johnson joined with top government officials and diplomats Sunday in attending the annual Roman Catholic Red Mass at St. Matthew's Cathedral.

They heard the Most Rev. John J. Russell, bishop of the Catholic diocese of Richmond, Va., declare "that separation of church and state which we all cherish in our country never meant the divorce of government from religion or the separation of law from morality."

Human Heart Is Transplanted

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — A bold attempt to give a man another heart was made by Mississippi surgeons Friday.

The transplant worked for an hour. It was the first known successful human heart transplant in the world.

The venture spurred hope in medical circles for the eventual success of not only heart transplants but those involving other organs.

The transplantation surgery at the University of Mississippi Medical Center is the latest in a series of clinical experiments around the world to give people new kidneys, livers, lungs, spleens and hearts as substitute for their own.

It could mean a new lease on life for many people who are otherwise healthy but doomed by progressive failure of some organs.

The heart came from a dead man. It was revived and transplanted into the chest of a man dying of heart failure.

Average Wage At Ford In '63 $3.31 An Hour

DETROIT (AP)—Ford Motor Co. production workers received an average gross wage of $3.31 an hour during 1963—up 16 cents from the previous high set in 1962, the company reported Saturday.

The firm said average gross hourly earnings of 88,412 Ford workers in Michigan was $3.34 an hour, up 13 cents from 1962. It said Ford's Michigan payroll rose by $55 million to $756 million.

The figures did not include Philco Corp., a Ford subsidiary.

Dedicated Train Threat To Buildup Of Ore Port

By JEAN WORTH

This year Escanaba marks the centennial of its ore port, the only one on Lake Michigan, and it wonders about the next century of the ore haul, which has been such a big part of its economy since completion of the Peninsula Railroad from Negaunee to Escanaba in 1864.

The resurgence of iron mining on the Marquette Range, and, to a lesser extent on the Menominee Range, has brightened prospects for a continuing large volume ore movement. But the threat of the dedicated train, operating only for the ore haul, clouds the future of lake haul of ore, especially to the South Chicago area, where there has been a great build-up of steelmaking capacity.

The dedicated train operates only between the iron mine and the steel mill, eliminating the lake haul. Such operations have proved their worth elsewhere and are regarded as likely or even inevitable for movement of part of the Lake Superior area iron ore production.

Such trains appear not the likely prospect for the Detroit and Lake Erie ports that they are for the Chicago area. Board Chairman Ben Heineman of Chicago & North Western Railway has described them as in the North Western's planning.

The North Western is also doing some long range thinking about an all-year Great Lakes port to move iron ore to lower lakes steel mills. Such an operation would eliminate stockpiling and effect economies.

Coast Guard and other marine specialists have said that all year marine traffic could be maintained in the Port of Escanaba, as it is now maintained by Ann Arbor Railroad carferries in the ports of Menominee and Manistique, and by the Mackinac Transportation Co. at St. Ignace.

The Hanna Mining Co.'s pelletized ore produced at its Groveland Mine at Randville is moving mostly through the Port of Escanaba from the Menominee Range, but mineral industry commentators speculate that a prospective U. S. Steel Corp. mining development on the Menominee would use all-train haul.

The competition between all-rail and rail-and-lake haul for ore is one of cost cutting. The Lake Superior iron ore industry is in a fierce competition with foreign ores.

"We have only one thing to sell—cost," Franklin Pardee of Crystal Falls, former Michigan state geologist has declared. He believes that dedicated trains are coming in the effort to reduce ore haul costs.

The successful opposition of the North Western to the plan of the Lake Superior & Ishpeming Railroad to build an ore dock on Little Bay de Noc to serve the Marquette Range weakens the Bay de Noc position in this developing threat to Lake borne ore.

Estimated consumption of the world's iron ore resources over the next 30 years will use only 18 per cent of known reserves, so there is strong competition for markets. Where Lake Superior ores are about 51 per cent iron (without beneficiation) some foreign ores have as much as 69 per cent iron in exposed open seams.

The result is that while U. S. production of iron ore had dropped from 118 million tons a year to 66 million tons in the past 10 years, foreign imports have trebled from 11 million to 3.7 million.

These figures are not as bad as they seem, because two-thirds of the increase is from Canada and the U. S. tonnage today comprises higher iron content concentrates and agglomerates than ten years ago. But the world oversupply of iron ore creates a situation in which Michigan must cut production costs as much as possible to market its ores. Lower costs are equated by industry with lower taxes, lower royalties, more production at present wages.

What To Deduct On Income Blank

EDITOR'S NOTE—One of the biggest questions surrounding filing income tax returns revolves about the issue of deductions for personal expenses. Here are the ABC's covering personal expenses in filing your 1963 income tax return, last of five articles.

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Writer

This is an ABC on deductions for personal expenses in filing your 1963 income tax return.

Some rules:

1. You can take the standard deduction allowed everyone filing a return even though your expenses were not as much as the standard deduction gives you. And you don't have to list your expenses to prove you had them.

The standard deduction is generally 10 per cent of your income up to a limit of $1,000.

2. Or, if your expenses were actually more than the standard deduction allows, you can claim them in full but in that case you must prove you had the expenses by itemizing them.

3. Anyone can use form 1040 in making a return. Anyone itemizing must use it and cannot use 1040A.

4. Only under-$5,000 income people can use the tax table to find their tax without figuring it. But no matter how much your income — under or over $5,000 — you must figure your own tax if you itemize expenses.

5. The over-$5,000 income people must figure their own tax, whether they take the standard deduction or itemize.

Ten Per Cent Allowed

If you're one of the over-$5,000 people figuring your own tax—provided you're single or a married couple filing jointly—you take your standard deduction this way:

You subtract 10 per cent of your income—up to a limit of $1,000—before applying the tax to what's left.

But note these two rules:

1. A married couple filing separate returns can also deduct 10 per cent of their income for expenses but only up to a limit of $500 on each return.

2. When a husband and wife file separate returns and one of them itemizes deductions, both must itemize and then both must use form 1040.

The list of deductions is far too long for full treatment here. Those deductions, and various rules for them, cover many pages of government guides. What follows is an attempt to condense much information but not all.

You'll get some information from the IRS instruction sheet. But if you need more than you find there or here then, for 40 cents, buy from the IRS the highly-detailed, 144-page government booklet: "Your Federal Income Tax."

Dues Not Included

For instance, you may need that booklet if you want to deduct for travel and entertainment expenses. The government, beginning in 1963, tightened up on the rules covering such deductions. You may need detailed information.

Also on your 1963 return you can claim a deduction, too involved for this space, for what is called retirement credit. Also you may need more information on medical and medicine expenses.

Some expenses you can deduct:

Contributions to charitable, religious, or educational organizations, such as the Community Chest, Salvation Army, churches, Red Cross, heart and cancer associations, tuberculosis societies and gifts — but not dues — to the YMCA, YWCA, YMHA, YWHA, and the American Legion.

Generally contributions can not exceed 20 per cent of your income. But 30 per cent is allowed if one-third, or more of your contributions went to churches and tax-exempt hospitals and educational institutions.

Interest Major Item

You can make these deductions:

State income taxes, real estate and state gasoline taxes (but not federal gasoline taxes), personal property taxes, auto license and registration fees, poll taxes and most retail sales taxes.

Some people, perhaps most, have not kept records on the sales taxes they paid in 1963. As a help the IRS has published in single-sheet form what generally can be considered a reasonable deduction, without the necessity of proof, for people who pay a sales tax in the various states and the District of Columbia. If you need one, get it from your IRS collector.

You can deduct for: Union dues, dues in professional societies, alimony payments by the person making them, fees to employment agencies, club dues if they are needed for business reasons and books or newspapers bought for use in your profession.

Also: Interest on your house mortgage, on a life insurance policy if you pay the interest in cash, delinquent taxes, your personal note to a bank or individual, and interest on personal property bought on the installment plan.

Property Losses

You can deduct the net amount of actual property loss from fire, storms, theft or accident. These may or may not be business losses.

You can deduct:

Expenses for your education but only if it was to help or improve you in keeping up with the skills of your job or to meet your employer's express requirements for keeping your salary. You can't deduct if the education was for personal reasons or to help you get a better job.

You can not deduct for:

Federal income taxes, federal social security payments withheld from your wages, estate and gift taxes, state inheritance taxes, fishing and hunting license fees, dog licenses, federal excise taxes on furs, jewelry, telephones, rail, bus and air tickets, wine, whiskey, gasoline, tobacco, theater tickets. And you can not deduct self-employment taxes you pay on your earnings from self-employment.

Your tax can be reduced by excluding things like sick pay and subtracting dividend credit.

Your pay is taxable if you were home ill only seven days. But for every day you were sick at home over seven days you can deduct up to $100 a week.

Sick Pay Excluded

But—if you were home because of injury or were hospitalized for as little as one day, you can start excluding sick pay from the first day of absence without waiting out the seven-day period which applies to illness at home.

In deducting for sick pay you may use form 1040 but can't use 1040A.

Suppose you got dividend income from stock in domestic corporations. You can exclude the first $50 of it. You can exclude $100 if your wife owns the stock jointly with you and she files jointly with you.

And, because of what is called dividend credit, you can deduct up to 4 per cent of what's left of your dividends after deducting the $50 and $100 just explained. You must use form 1040 and can't use 1040A.

Medical expenses:

You can deduct for them if you itemize them on form 1040 but only that part of them which is more than 3 per cent of your income as shown on line 9 of 1040.

Medical Item Limited

As for the cost of medicines and drugs, you can include it in your medical expenses but only that part which is more than 1 per cent of your income as shown on line 9 of form 1040.

But—if you or your wife was 65 in 1963 the 3 per cent limit for your medical care does not apply.

The rules on age don't apply when deducting for medicines or drugs—either for yourselves or your parents. You can include as medical expenses only that part of the medicine bill which is more than 1 per cent of your income as shown on line 9 of form 1040.

Is pension income from an employer excludable from taxable income? Some kinds are and some times only part of them are. To be sure in your case consult the instruction sheet of the 144-page booklet.
